The dilution-intelligence terminal for junior mining investors

There is no second OreLens.

WHO'S TEACHING

Built by someone who's been on both sides of the trade.

10+ YEARS

on Wall Street - trading stocks and consulting companies through every kind of market.

DOZENS

of junior mining companies worked with directly - inside the deals, not reading about them.

RAISED ON RISK

grew up alongside a professional short seller who made eight figures finding what could go wrong before the market did.

This platform is that experience, turned into software.

WHY ORELENS EXISTS

The multi-million-dollar desks see a different market than you do.

THEY SEE

- Cash runway and monthly burn
- Unlock schedules - when locked paper free-trades
- Who's paying for promotion, and how much
- Raise history and issuance habits

YOU SEE

- A chart
- A press release
- A promoted tweet
- The price - after it moves

OreLens gives the public the desk's view.

“How do I know I’m right?”

If you only look at reward, you won't be a trader for long.

Bias is the most expensive position you can hold.

The answer is not confidence - it's risk tools.

THE STAKES

40-70%

That's what a single dilution event routinely takes out of a junior mining position.

Surprise financing

announced at a discount, with warrants

Unlock wave

months of locked paper free-trading in one day

Promotion ends

the paid awareness stops - and so does the bid

Every one of these is visible in advance - in the filings. We read them nightly, so you see it coming.
